Brindsport (Cal.,) Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The grand jury has rendered a lengthy report of its investigation of the death of Ah Quong Tia the Chinese who was tortured and cut to pieces by Indians. Ah Quong Tia was charged by the Coroner's jury with the murder of "Poker Tom," an Indian.

who was found cut to pieces.

The report says that the justices of the peace discharged Ah Quong from custody when the evidence was sufficient to hold him, and that the pros-ecuting attorney did not object when counsel for the defense moved for dismissal against the defendant's wish well knowing that his client would be murdered if he were left unprotected The report finds that when the defend ant was discharged the court refused to give him protection, but left the courtroom and announced the result of the examination on the street. Three or four Indians then rushed into the courtroom and seized Ah Quong, took him to the outskirts of the town and cut him to pieces alive. The sheriff had positive knowledge of what was about to occur, but refused to protect the victim unless paid for it. The Indians, who were from the Government reservation at Walker Lake, Nev., were encouraged in their criminal act and discharged the court refuse reservation at Walker Lake, Nev., were encouraged in their criminal act and abetted by some citizens of the town. By Telegraph to the Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The Times has a Valparaiso cable asserting that a Chilean official said that his government has no intention of making an apology or paying an indemnity as suggested by the United States. The attitude of the whole government is still defiant. No steps are yet yaken to cut down army or navy, and even the volunteers sent home were instructed to retain their arms.

THE YORKTOWN ARRIVES.

Her Crew Welcomed by the Baltimore's Men—The Long Investigation.

"The intendente of Valparaiso has requested Capt. Schley to furnish the evidence of the Baltimore surgeons in regard to the nature of Boatswain's Mate gard to the nature of Boatswain's Mate Riggin's wounds to aid in determining whether the latter's wounds were caused by a pistol or rifle bullet. Rifles are carried by the Chilean police. The Chilean doctor who attended Riggin swears that his death was caused by a revolver bullet. Notwithstanding this there is a bullet. Notwithstanding this there is a silent witness to the contrary in the hole made in the shirt and necktie of the Baltimore's sailor who was hold-ing Riggin in his arms after Riggin was ing Riggin in his arms after Riggin was stabled. This hole was made by a rifle bullet of 42-caliber, and proves conclusively that the shot was fired by the police. This is sustained by evidence of the Baltimore's surgeon, who measured the wound.

A later dispatch says that before the police could make a thorough search for the dead the ruins, which had caught fire, were a mass of flames, which rendered approach impossible. It is pretty certain that any dead in the ruins will be burned beyond recognition. Six persons received serious injury in the explosion, but it is difficult at present to estimate the number of dead. Later and more conservative estimates place the loss of life at ten. The explosion shook the whole center of the town. Hundreds of windows were smashed and the buildings in the were smassed and the buildings in the market place were shaken to their foundations. The first impression of the inhabitants of the town was that the place had been visited by an earthquake and great excitement prevailed. When and great excitement prevailed. When the cause of the shock was known and it was learned that many people were in the Crown Hotel, the aiarm of the citizens was much intensified. An Important Decision by the Supreme Court.

THE COURTS.

A Rather Complicated Case Heard Before Judge Van Dyke.

Attorney Glowner Shown Up in a Very Discreditable Light.

of the Wong Ark Bondsmen on Trial for Perjury-Young Hunsaker's Ball Declared Forfeited-Court Notes.

The decision of the Supreme Court in affirming the judgment and order of the trial court in the case of Lyman Allen et al. (respondents) vs. the San Jose Land and Water Company and Henry Dobbs (appellants) was received from headquarters yesterday by Deputy Clerk Culp for filing in this city.

This was an appeal from a judgment upon the pleadings rendered for plaintiffs and perpetually enjoining defendants from laying water place across tiffs and perpetually enjoining defendants from laying water pipes across plaintiffs' land. Justice Garoutte in his opinion says: ... 'The principal question in this case is whether an easement to run water over plaintiff's land in an open ditch is satisfied by carrying the water in a closed pipe laid on the bottom of such ditch and then covered to the depth of thirteen inches with dirt, provided that such change in the easement would benefit the servient estate and convenience the dominant estate.' After citing a number of authorities on and convenience the dominant estate. After citing a number of authorities on the subject the Court concludes as follows: "We believe the threatened alteration by defendants in the mode of using the easement is of such a substantial characters." tial character as to be without the terms of its implied grant and tends to the creation of a new and different servi-

The opinion is concurred in by Justices Harrison and Paterson.

A RATHER MIXED CASE. against Attorneys A. J. Vinton and G. E. Glowner, which came up for hearing before Judge Van Dyke yesterday after-noon, attracted quite a crowd of attor-neys to the courtroom of Department The action was brought to foreclose a Four.

The action was brought to foreclose a chattel mortgage given by the defendants jointly to J. S. Chadwick, as attorney in fact for B. F. Getchell, some time ago, on Glowner's law library as security for a note for $169, and by him assigned to plaintiff, but there were several interesting developments. It was shown that some time is March last Mrs. Hunter, through Chadwick, employed Attorney W. W. Taylor to commence suit on the mortgage, and that he didso. A few months after Mrs. Hunter took the matter out of Taylor's hands and placed it in the hands of Horace Bell, Esq. Chadwick went to Taylor and procured all the papers in the case, which he transferred to Bell The latter attorney did not immediately examine them, but when he did so he was surprised to find that both note and mortgage were missing. Taylor, upon being asked about the matter, stated that he gave all the received to Bell.

given all he received to Bell. On Saturday last Bell heard that Glowner had the note, and meeting him on the street asked him for it, but the defendant denied that he had it, as did also his partner. Vinton.

When the case was tried yesterday Glowner not only acknowledged having the note, but produced it and swore that he had bought it from Chadwick

Chadwick, on being called to the witness stand, swore that he had never done so, and as Taylor also denied having given the documents to Glowner, the situation was an interesting one to say the least, especially as Maj. Bell frequently let fall remarks about the warfolying of the apparer.

purloining of the papers.

It was further developed that since the suit had been commenced Glowner had sold the books to David Galbreth, to whom he represented that the suit would be settled, and the latter put in a claim in intervention, but the Court resed to admit it. Glowner, in his defense, attempted to make capital out of Chadwick's reputation, but the Court apparently took no notice of his slurs, for at the close of the testimony, judgment was ordered for plaintiff as prayed for. A stay of execution was, however, granted for execution was thirty days.

ON TRIAL FOR PERJURY. In Department Six yesterday the trial of the case against Ah Tet, one of the Wong Ark witnesses, charged with perjury, was commenced before Judge McKinley and the following jury: G. W. Adams, J. Baldridge, J. F. Branch, D. Felix, C. Heath, S. K. Jones, I. L. Langstadter, H. I. Pinney, J. Settright, F. E. Stockwell, J. Weber and W. W.

Young.
The prosecution was conducted by Deputy District Attorney Phibbs, while the defendant's interests were attended to by Messrs. Guthrie and Hardesty.
Owing to the time consumed in selectowing to the time consumed in selecting a jury very little testimony was taken, only three witnesses being examined. These were W. W. Reed, deputy county clerk; Chan Kin Sing, the official interpreter, and Officer Orlando Rohn. Their testimony was in substance to the effect that the defendant was a witness for the defendant in the stance to the effect that the detendant was a witness for the defense in the trial of the Wong Ark murder case be-fore Judge Shaw, and that he, while under oath, denied that he made cer-tain statements regarding the murder to Officer Rohn on the night after the af-fair.

The case will be resumed this morning.

When Ben F. Hunsaker was called for arraignment upon the charge of embez-zlement in Judge Smith's court yesterday morning, the defendant failed to respond and upon motion of the District Attorney his bail was ordered forfeited, and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. He is believed to be in Mexico.

THE ABBOTT CASE. The Amos Abbott burglary case was finally submitted to the jury about 5:30 finally submitted to the jury about 5:80 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after a whole day's argument by the respective counsel; but somewhat contrary to general expectation, the result will in all probability be a mistrial, as at 9 o'clock last night it was currently reported that the jurors were about equally divided, with no prospect of agreement. The jury was locked up for the night, but will probably be discharged when court convenes this morning.

THE MAYOR TALKS BACK. What He Says About Councilman Rees' Street Car Pass. Mayor Hazard was seen by a Times reporter last evening, and when asked whether he had read Mr. Rees' remarks as reported in the Council proceedings, said:

Yes, I have read it, and am somewhat amused at the umbrage he takes at my stating he rides on free passes obtained by virtue of his position as counciliman, because I have no hesitancy in stating that no one ever offered him a pass before he was, a counciliman. He says, "When he catches me and my wife riding to Sacramento and back on a free pass, I will agree to place twice the amount of the fare in the treasury of the Orphans' Home." That is true, because no railroad company would ever conceive the necessity of putting that amount to own this Urlah Heep of the Ninth Ward; he can be bought for less money; a 5-cent car fare is nearer his fix. He admits, however, that I did pay my fare, although I was on business of the city. He says "when he returned from Sacramento he thought he could make a little political capital if he insisted on paying his fare." I never thought of that, as I have always and on all occasions paid my fare, and I would never have mentioned it had I not been compelled to in answer to his charge that I got $25 from the city, when I in that one instance show that I-expended in fare and hotel bills alone the sum of $133 in behalf of the city, and never asked the city to repay me a cent thereof. I am frank to confess he would make some political capital if he would repay a struggling street car company which has invested so much in our city, and barely pays running expenses, if he would pay the amount of his faresobtained on a free pass. I did say that he accepted favors of the street-car companies and rode on passes. I must qualify that, however, by saying, on reliable information, that during the session of the grand jury, when it was reported that that matter was under advisement by that body, he declined to use pass No. 170, but I don't know that he is entitled to ancredit therefor, because members of his family did, during that time, use other Yes, I have read it, and am somewhat credit therefor, because members of his largely, however, upon the number in his family.

Under no circumstance should he accept favors from any, and if the salary is not sufficient without accepting favors he should resign, because an employé cannot always exercise his honest judgment who permits himself to be put under obligations, no matter how small. That would depend largely, however, upon the number in his family.

Permit me to describe the sensation of this independent municipal statesman traveling on a free pass. The conductor comes along and says: "Fare, piease!" The question then arises in his mind which is the greater, my independent manhood, that would prompt me to pay my way through the world and be under obligations to no one, or 5 cents. Some men would not consider the proposition: others would admit that 5 cents was the larger, retain it in their pockets, surrender their independent manhood, and in reply to "fare, please," say "pass No. 170." I will pay my respects in propertime to this municipal statesman with a free-pass collar around his neck.

It is hard telling which is the more popular premium, the dictionary or the Encyclopedia and Gazetteer, given out with THE TIMES. Both together make a pretty good library in themselves. Both are going rapidly and subscriptions to the daily and weekly editions of the paper are rolling in.

SECRETARY DICKINSON, of the World's Fair, has sent out notices to the Goyernors of the various States asking them to choose two members of their World's Fair boards to come to Chicago December 9 to attend a big World's Fair convention. This notice is sent out in accordance with a resolution opted by the Board of Control at its last session. The object of the conven tion is to have the delegates meet the Board of Control, department chiefs and other officials, and to devise uniform plans for State work. Mrs. Palmer adds to the invitation a statement that she wants all the women who are members of the various State boards to be present and learn about the plans for promoting the work women are doing.

An association has been formed in San Francisco to creet a monument memory of Col. E. D. Baker, soldier, statesman, patriot-one of the greatest characters that the Pa cific Coast has ever claimed in its list of citizens. A sympathetic and stirring tribute prepared by E. B. Jerome, who was captain and aide-de-camp during the war, and who is now secretary of the Monumental Association, is presented in other columns today. It is good to call such heroes to mind once in a while, and at their shrines renew our patriotism. It is eminently fitting that the Pacific Coast should join in a general movement to erect a monument to one whose name adorns the pages of its early history, figures prominently in the annals of the country, and which will go sounding down the corridors of Time while the memory of heroic deed and patriotic purpose lives in the minds

THE recommendation of Secretary Tracy to station an armed vessel per manently in each of the larger harbors of the United States is meeting with popular favor. One of these vessels constantly on hand would serve as a drill and practice ship for local naval reserve companies, and at the same time be sufficiently formidable to constitute a powerful protector to the port. : Twelve Pages At the Beck of a Crazy Man. If the New York Herald's cablegran from Paris is worthy of belief, Germany is in a bad way. Emperor William is represented to be "at sixes and sevens" A STATE mining convention is to be in his upper story-not crazy enough to be shut up in a mad-house, but altogether too crazy to have supreme control of the destinies of a great nation. Of course we must make some allowance for a story of this kind which comes from France, because the French people are notoriously prejudiced against Germany, and they see nearly everything Teutonic through green glasses. But, if the case should be actually as represented, we would not be apt to get a full and impartial report of it from German sources. It would be worth all of a German subject's life and fortunes to send or even allow such a dispatch to go forth from the fatner land The Paris letter represents that Em peror William is afflicted with a good many of the idiosyncracies which be set the late King of Bavaria when his mind first became unhinged. these is an absolute infatuation for the stage. It is said that, some months ago. he deputed a general to teach the ballet at the operahouse a military dance. When Wildenbrach's play, Der Neue Herr, was placed on the boards the Em peror was present and sent for the au thor, keeping him in conversation a full hour, while the audience waited. When the Emperor was struck with a spasm of moral reform recently he directed that parts of a play in which an actor embraced an actress should be modified so as to leave out the hugging. Other freaks, which seem to be harmless in themselves, are related in great num-One of these is an insane fondness for fancy dressing. It is stated that in one day he wore eleven different uniforms. He is also given to promulgat ing the most ridiculous orders to his grenadiers for the purpose of astonishing them or perpetrating an apparent

It is intimated that Germany is fully informed of the Emperor's rattlebrained condition, and is in a state of great tension. Extreme measures may be expected if socialism continues, the correspondent says, and it is hard to see what means can be devised to check the movement which is sweeping through Germany. The recent bold attack on the Emperor by Herr Bebel, the Socialist leader, in the course of a debate in the Reichstag, may be taken as an indication of the tumult which is brewing beneath the surface of German politics. The Paris budget concludes as

The greatest of all perils to which the Germans are exposed by William's restless. ness is his conduct of foreign affairs. The Germans know now that during Empress Fredericks visit to Paris the Kaiser, believing that his mother had been insuited, ordered the mobilization of four army corps. This order was actually on the way when the Kaiser received a dispatch from Queen Victoria imploring her grandson not to let loose the dogs of war. William calmed down after reading this message and countermanded his instructions. A fortnight later peace was once more imperiled, but this time it was Russia, not France, which was threatened. On learning that the Czarhad decided not to halt in Berlin on his recent journey the Kaiser's dignity took umbrage, another mobilization order was issued to avenge the supposed slight to his person, and it was only through a second intervention of Queen Victoria that a conflict was averted. follows:

Wiseacres say that the loss of the Queen's influence over her grandson will cause the threatened mobilization to become a fact, and that war will result. For my own part I am convinced that the young Kaiser desires peace, and would, perhaps too late, regret war if it broke out, but in his present state of mind the peace of Europe may depend on a fit of imperial ill-temper, and his promptness to suppose that his neightors are anxious to insult, him would be a constant menace, even if Europe were united. What dangers may come up in times like these when all the, nations are divided into rival camps! Now you see that though political Europe craves for peace, she is at every turn obliged to dread war.

While the armies of Europe are resting on their arms, so to speak, awaiting Wiseacres say that the loss of the Queen's ing on their arms, so to speak, awaiting an order to advance, it is plainly to be seen that a crazy man on the German throne would be capable of a great deal of mischief in a very short time. The best that can be hoped for is that matters may drag along as they are for a time until Emperor William is restored to mental soundness, or becomes crazy enough to be shut up where he can do no harm.

The Australian Bugs

Prof. Coquillette exhibited at THE Times office vesterday specimens of the new parasitic bugs just sent from Australia by Albert Koebele, extended mention of which has been made in these columns. There are five species repre sented, one of which (said to be the most effective enemy of the red scale) is a small lady bug of a bright blue color. Another, a little larger, is of steel blue, spotted with red. A third, called Leis conformis, is yellow, with black spots, and closely resembles the lady bug native to this country. one is an enemy of the wooly aphis, a parasite very destructive to deciduou trees. There are two other little bugs among the strangers, the character of which is not yet known. Unfortunately out of the whole con signment of 2000 bugs, only twenty eight reached here alive-six of the small blue, eight or nine of the stee blue and one of the Leis conformis. It is possible that some of the larva may hatch out and help to perpetuate the stock. In his letter to Prof. Coquillette Mr Koebele promised to send another con-signment by the next Australian steamer, and it is to be hoped that the fatality among them will not be so great. At any rate, these gentlemen.

Propose to keep trying until the Australian bugs are thoroughly colonized here and given a chance to exterminate the red, yellow and black scales that infest the orange and lemon trees.

To Merchants and Other Busines

The Decennial Anniversary Number of THE TIMES is to be issued December 4. The intervening time is too short to enable the solicitors to visit all intending advertisers and take their orders in person. You are, therefore, invited to send in your copy, with the order for insertion, while there is yet time. The prices are uniform and easily understood, and you can readily make your own calculations, deter mining for yourselves the amount you wish to spend for advertising in this special issue. The rates are: For display, $1.50 per inch, or $33 per column, taking the run of the paper; for classified (first, second and third pages,) 5 cents per line; for reading notices, 10, 15, 20 or 30 cents per line, according to the size of type and position. (Six words make a line.)

The edition will be a large and exceptionally valuable one, because it will make a ten years' showing of progress and development in Los Angeles. It will be effective for both holiday and general advertising.

Your order and copy should be in by Wednesday afternoon, December 2, except for small classified advertisements, which will be received up to Thursday evening.

ONE of the carved stone sills under a window of the new Courthouse bears upon it the figure of a pair of balances. It is said that the stonecutter (who, as it chanced, is an Irishman) was left to pick out a design to suit himself when he made the sill, and he cut the bal ances as we frequently see them in pictures-one end tilted down and the other end tilted up. When the boss came around to inspect his work he said:

"Mike, what in the deuce did you cut that kind of a figure for?" "Well, sor, the sill's for the winow of wan of the court-rooms, and I bethought me to cut on it the scales of justice.' "But, Mike, the scales of justice are always evenly balanced."

A strong effort is to be made by the press committee which goes East this month to secure for California in 1892 the session of the American Editorial Association. It is expected that from 800 to 1000 people will be in attendance on the convention, comprising newspaper men from every corner of the country. If they can be induced to come to California they are sure of good entertainment, and the report which they will send to their journals will be the best advertisement of our State that could be devised. The Ex ecutive Committee of the Association is to meet in Cincinnati late this month o early in January to settle upon the next place of meeting and the date. The California committee will go to Cincinnati with the persuasive auxiliary of a carload of fresh and dried fruits, wine and other products, to give an inkling of what California can do in the way of entertainment.

Los Angeles Theater.-The benefit en tertainment, given last night in aid of the members of the late Columbia Opera Com-pany, was a distinct artistic success, and afforded much pleasure to the rather slim audience that gathered to listen to the con cert selections furnished by the leading people of the late organization. The as-sistance afforded by local talent, including Paul Colberg, Mrs. Masac and Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, helped to make the affair en-joyable. It is to be regretted that the meager returns of the box office, some $120 only, will not furnish the substantial aid that was anticipated.

Two Junior Officers Made Scapegoats for

LONDON, Nov. 80.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The actual charges against Capt. Boileau and Capt. Butcher, which led to their names being stricker from the army list, are not yet known but the conjecture that they grew out of the retreat from Manipur is probably correct. In fact, the St. James Gazette today publishes a comment upon the sentence imposed, in which it is taken for granted that this was the reason. The Gazette says in part:

The Gazette says in part:

Mrs. Grimwood's narrative is evidence that the retreat was a disorderly stampede. It was not made to save her life; on the contrary she was left to save herself until the fugitives recovered from their panic. The retreat from Manipur was necessary, but a stand might have been made in the hills in the vicinity. Had this been done the lives of the captives might have been saved. At any rate, the disaster would not have been a disgrace. But the disaster calls for more than the banishment of two junior officers.

CHURCH AND STATE.

Archbishop of Alx.
Paris, Nov. 30.—It is believed in nany quarters that the prosecution of archbishop of Aix was a false step on the part of the government. The today says that the Minister of Foreign Affairs in an interview with the papal nuncio at Paris intimated that unless the Vatican advised modera-tion on the part of certain French bishops the government would feel in-clined to cease opposing the separation of church and state.

Members of the Right in the Cham-ber of Deputies have sent congratula-tions to the Archbishop of Aix on his defense of the church. The Archbishop of Bordeaux, in an address to the clerg of his archdiocese, said that he was not surprised that the incident which recently occurred in the Pantheon should induce a prelate to protest against the acts of the Italians, though France had not even reminded Italy of the respect due the French flag.

A preliminary meeting of Republican members of the Chamber has been called to decide upon the course of the Republican party in view of the tinued agitation of the clergy and bishops in supporting the Archbishop of Aix.

It ill became the government, he said, to talk of checking the course of speculation while it permitted state lotteries and race betting.

Von Caprivi, in reply, said the constitution did not require ministers to countersign acts of the sovereign giv-ing expression to his wishes. The pub-lication of such acts in the Reichsanzeitgen was merely intended to record their terms. A GOLDEN JUBILEE Impressive Rites in Honor of Archbishop Kendrick.

St. Louis Thronged with Prelates of the Catholic Church-A Processi Pontifical Mass-Banquet and Speeches

y Telegraph to The Times.
St. Louis, Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] Just fifty years ago Peter Richard Kendrick was consecrated a bishop of the Roman Catholic Church. Today his golden jubilee was celebrated with great pomp. Only once before has the golden jubilee of a bishop been celebrated-that of John McHale, Archbishop of Tuam, Ireland, eleven years It is evident that the event is se ago. rare that the whole world is interested in it, and in this case it is not simply because such celebrations are infre quent, but because Archbishop Kendrick has filled these fifty years with useful-ness and good, and were it not for the fact that on a notable occasion he in curred the displeasure of the Holy See by boldly declaring his unbelief in the infallibility of the Pope he would now

The grand pontifical mass, commemorative of the occasion, began at 9 o'clock in the historic old cathedral on Walnut street, leading representatives of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the United States officiating. The jubilee sermon was delivered by Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia.

Archbishop Ryan in the course of his sermon reviewed the life of Archbishop Kendrick in all its phases, religious, business and charitable, and spoke of his great sanctity and fortitude.

Preceding the mass there was an impressive procession from the Cathedral parish school, situated next to the church, to the main entrance of the Cathedral. In the march out from the Cathedral. In the march out from the yard and up the steps of the church the venerable Archbishop walked under a canopy which was carried by attend-ants. The mass, which was most impressive and elaborate, was celebrated by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Ryan, assisted by a number of priests.

The altar was dressed in magnificent style with flowers, evergreens and colors. The ceremony was concluded with a solemn episcopal blessing. The church was decorated on a grand scale for the excession. for the occasion. The sanctuary was almost filled with rare plants and flow-ers. Illuminated globes of rich colors and large banners were suspended from the high ceiling, and the pilasters and columns were fairly covered with buntcolumns were fairly covered with binting. Two thrones on the epistle and gospel sides of the altar were decorated with colors appropriate to the dignitaries who occupied them. Bannerettes with fitting inscriptions and illustrations were suspended between

After the pontificial mass all the visiting archbishops and priests were driven to the Lindell Hotel, where a banquet was tendered Archbishop Kendrick and his guests. Archbishop Kendrick was seated at the head of the table, with Cardinal Gibbons on his right aad Archbishop Elder on his left. After the menu had been finished Vicar General menu had been finished Vicar General Brady read an address from the clergy of the diocese to Archbishop Kendrick, who made a short response. Rev. Mr. Goller delivered an adress of welcome to the Cardinal and visiting clergy.

Cardinal Gibbons, responding to the toast "Our holy father, Leo XIII," said in part, after eulogizing the Pope:

The Catholic religion is adapted to all times and places and finds herself at home under every government. Nowhere is the benign authority of the pontiff more respected and bosored than in the United States. Our devotedness toward him is not less strong because less noisy in its demonstration. In his encyclical on Christian marriage he proclaims a truth which ought to be heeded by the American people. If Christian civilization is to be saved and perpetuated the sanctity and indissolubility of the Christian marriage must be recognized by the masses. In all public utterances the Pope proves that he is abreast of the times and in sympathy with the legitimate aspirations of humanity.

The Cardinal closed with an expres-

The Cardinal closed with an expression of thanks to the Pope for the message sent in remembrance of the jubilee, and with a brilliant eulogy of Archbishop Kendrick, after which he presented the latter with the Pope's gift, a portrait of His Holiness, in a handsome gold frame.

A number of other toasts were responded to by eminent prelates.

One of the largest processions ever seen in this country took place tonight, 30,000 torch-bearing men turning out to do honor to Archbishop Kendrick. Fifty-two parishes of the city and many visiting delegations marched past the archiepiscopal residence, each parish saluting as it passed. Gov. Francis and city officials led the procession, riding in carriages. It took the procession an hour and a half to pass a given point.

Washington, Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] Three tariff cases, involving the constitutionality of the Mc-Kinley tariff act, came up for argument in the United States Supreme Court today. All the Justices were pres-The three cases are tho Boyd, Sutton & Co. and Sternbach & of New York, and Marshal Field & Co. of Chicago. Three points are involved in the decision of these suits, and the Court heard all the cases as one and made an order by which each of the attorneys representing the three firms was assigned one of the points at issue to be reviewed. In opening the arguments, W. W. Smith of New York argued the bounty clause, contending that bounties are unconstitutional and invalidated the whole constitutional and invalidated the whole act. Edwin B. Smith, ex-Assistant Attorney-General, and now of New York, argued that the reciprocity feature was a delegation of the taxing power to the President, which vitiated the whole act.

N. W. Bliss of Chicago argued that the law is unconstitutional because of the omission of the tobacco rebate action. The arguments will be continued tomorrow.

THE FREE DELIVERY SYSTEM.

Its Workings During the Year-Carriers's Claims for Overtime. WASHINGTON, Nov. 80.—[By the Associated Press.] Supt. Pollock, of the free delivery system of the Postoffice Department, in his annual report shows that the number of free delivery offices at the close of the fiscal year was 519, an increase of sixty-five over ceding year. The cost of the service was $9,072,060, which was $22,424 less than the appropriation. The number of carriers was 10,180, an increase of 1064 during the year. The number of pieces of mail handled was 8,606,-354,820.

Considerable attention is given to the subject of over-time claims of let-ter carriers under the act of May 24, 1888, limiting the hours in which car-riers shall be employed per day. The practical result of this act, the report states, has been the filing of enormous over-time claims, aggregating nearly $500,000, and this does not by any means represent the maximum amount of claims already prepared. In view of the tendency of the law to create over-time claims and the certainty, judging from past experiences, that they will arise as long as the existing system continues, and with the further unfortunate experience that the law puts a premium on loitering and inefficiency, instead of the opposite, the report suggests certain modifications of the law; among them, that no carrier be required states, has been the filing of enormous among them, that no carrier be required to work more than fifty-one hours in any one week of seven days where there is a Sunday service, or forty-eight hours where there is no Sunday service; also that carriers after four years' service, upon certificate of faithfulness and effi-ciency be promoted from $1000 to $1200 per year, and when inefficient iency be promoted from $1000 to $1200 per year, and when inefficient or unfitted for active work they be reduced to a lower grade.

PEKIN, Nov. 30.—[By Cable and the Associated Press.] The government is fully aware of the serious condition which confronts it and every possible step is being taken to break the strength of the rebels before they get within striking distance of the capital.

There is much excitement among the population, and the authorities believe that if they can inflict a defeat upon the rebels it will have a good effect upon the people of Pekin and vicinity. It is believed that many people are secretly in favor of the rebels, but should the imperial forces have a battle with the insurgents and defeat them the malcon-tents would then side with the government. No doubt is entertained that the situation is dangerous. Should the rebel forces continue to advance toward the capital, in spite of the efforts of the imperial troops to prevent them, it is feared by foreigners that the people will rise and aid the invaders. The garrison of Shankaikivan has been sent to suppress other insurrectionary bodies which are marching in various directions through the country, evidently with the intention of joining the main body.

A most serious condition of affairs exists at Takow. This is the place where the most brutal outrages were committed on priests, nuns and converts. What action the government will take in this matter is hard to say. That the authorities are in full sympathy with the perpetrators of these most horrible crimes there is no reason to doubt. crimes there is no reason to doubt. First reports from Takow stated that after these flends had worked their bloody will on all Christian men, women and children who fell into their hands they were feted by leading Chinese mandarins in the district. It is now said the local mandaries rict. It is now said the local mandar-ins agreed to allow the rebels free license for outrages on Christians pro-vided they did no harm to other inhabi-tants. These terms were accepted by the rebels and they pursued their work without hindrance. Three hundred Europeans and native Christians were massacred. It is believed that no Christians escaped.

CHICAGO, Nov. 80.—[By the Associated Press. A local paper says that the wind-up of the November corn deal would seem to prove the assertion that the Chicago end is nothing but a sideshow to the big corner in New York. It is evident from the advance in price in New York to $1.10, against 75 cents in Chicago, that some persons in the former city are having the screws turned on them mercilessly. HEN you can buy a Royal Worcester Corset for the same money you pay for a corset that has no name or merit, don't you think a Royal Worcester is really more economy? The cheapest corset bearing the name of Royal Worcester sells for $1; the same company makes a corset that is retailed for 50c and 75c, but do not brand them Royal Worcester. A corset is like a shoe. There are as many different forms, and a house that is up to the times makes a special effort to fit all forms, either long, medium or short waists. The Royal Worcester Corset Company makes a better corset at the price than any other company in the land; they are progressive; they go upon the principle that there is nothing so great that an improvement cannot be made, and upon this theory they are supplanting all imported corsets. One year ago the Royal Worcester Corset was almost unknown in this city; today there are more Royal Worcesters sold than any other brand, and they are giving better satisfaction; they are being largely recommended by dressmakers. Take a lady from Boston, New York or Philadelphia and they invariably inquire for Royal Worcester Corsets. They know their merit. This is another department that is coming forward with a very large increase in sales. You get extra good attention in the corset department the same as elsewhere. When next you want a corset look into the merits of the Royal Worcester. We shall push the sales on Royal Worcesters from this on and expect to more than double the sales in this department. This is the live house of the city.

A Constable's Prisoner, Arrested for Swindling, Takes a Hand at Draw and Wins a Stake-Other

McMinnville, Nov. 30 .- [By the Associated Press.] J. A. Stine, editor of the Whitson Advance, was shot and in-stantly killed last night by H. C. Cook, a section boss on the narrow gauge road. Cook then placed the pistol to his own head and fired twice, instantly killing Stine, Cook and a German section hand had been to Amity, distant three miles from Whitson, and were return-ing on foot. Stine was walking about ten feet in advance of the others. Without warning Cook drew his pistol and fired at Stine. The ball struck him in the back of the neck, breaking his spinal column. Cook then turned the pistol toward himself and fired a shot into his breast. He then placed the pistol to his temple and sent a second shot have the heart and second shot the contract of the second shot the se through his brain. No cause is known for the tragedy and it is accounted for on the theory that Cook was seized with a sudden fit of mental abberration. He has acted peculiarly for several days past. shippers, who wrote:

As it now stands we must find other methods of disposing of wine grapes or get better rates from the railroad. Unless this happens we must dig out our vines and produce something of more value and less bulk. I can refer you, if necessary, to others who have shipped on this road during this season who have also suffered prohibitory rates. Among these are J. M. Fleming of Trenton, M. Sheplar of Mount Olive, J. A. Anderson of Forestville, all in Sonoma county.

Copies of the complaint were ordered served on Messrs. McGlynn and Menton of the Donahue road, with a request for a prompt explanation. Trenton is a station on the Guerneville branch of the San Francisco and Northern Pacific. The commission adjourned for two weeks.

NON-SUITED.

The Rea-Woods Slander Case Decided for the Defendant. SAN JOSE, Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] Judge Reynolds today non-suited the case of Rea vs. Woods for $100,000 damages for slander, on the grounds that the words if spoken did not effect Rea pecuniarily or injure his reputation as a Kailroad Commissioner, and as the suit was not brought until after election the time had passed for actionable measures. Another ground was that a person in office can-not be affected in reputation more than a person in private life, and that there was no imputation that Rea's private reputation for honesty had been smirched. Notice of an appeal was given.

Decennial Anniversary Number of The Times.

be Issued December 4 - Valuabl Features—The Story of a Decade

—The Best Yet—Times

The Los Angeles Times was founded December 4, 1881. On the 4th day of December, 1891, it will celebrate its decennial anniversary in a striking man ner, viz.: by the publication of a special 24-page number, in which will be chronicled each onward step of Los Angeles from the era of adobe to the era of brick, stone and iron. There will be a description of the town as it was in 1881, and of the city as it is today with detailed information about its com merce, trade, steam, cable, and electric railroads, buildings, homes, finances and other noteworthy matters; also a care fully compiled historical sketch of Los Angeles during the past ten years, with especial reference to the causes and evidences of its phenomenal growth. The creation of THE TIMES is intimately associated with the growth of Los Angeles. It was started just be fore the commencment of the marvelous advancement which has transformed Los Angeles from a sleepy semi-Mexican pueblo of 11,000 inhabitants to a live American metropolis of more than 55,000. The steady development of THE TIMES will be described, from the starting of the thumb-sheet WEEKLY MIRROR as "the smallest paper in California"-not much bigger than a man's hand-to the 8, 12 and 16-page daily advertisements. Los Angeles county will be given careful attention and large space. It will be a solid and a superb number Edition, 20,000 copies or more. Prices in quantities, 5 copies, 25 cents; 10 copies, 50 cents; 20 copies, $1.00.

Spread the Decennial Number abroad by hundreds and thousands of copies! It is the most interesting publication and the most effective missionary agent that can be sent out, by reason, particularly, of the ten years' showing and contrast presented in its columns.

In the forthcoming decennial issue which will be published December 4.
1891, it will be seen that the development of The Times has more than kept pace with the city's growth, and, with the cooperation of the business men, the cooperation of the business men, will show an increase largely in excess of tenfold over its initial number. It is for the business men themselves to see that this showing is made, more especially for the reason that thousands of copies of the paper will be sent abroad, and will be looked upon as the surest index of the city's material growth and progress during the past decade by reason of the comparisons between the Los Angeles of ten years ago and our magnificent modern city as it stands today.

THE LEFFLER MURDER.

The Result of the Coroner's Inquest.

Difficulty in the Way of Arriving at the Facts.

Conflicting Statements of the Two Men Implicated.

Verdict Returned at a Late Hour Last Evening—The Jury Unable to Say Which of the Men is

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning Coroner Weldon and a jury held an in-quest on the remains of Sam Leffler, the Southern Pacific night watchman, who while driving them out of a box car in the yards at the San Fernando street depot early Sunday morning.

The first witness, W. F. Poor, is de ceased's brother-in-law. Deceased was 38 years old, and was born at Wulnut Hill, Ill., on November 6, 1858. Wit ness has known deceased for about a year. He knew nothing about his murder of his own knowledge.

Harry Botsworth was next called and in reply to questions by the Coroner he in reply to questions by the Coroner he testified that he was slightly acquainted with the deceased. Yesterday morning he went to work as usual, at about 7 o'clock, and as he passed the wood pile near the bridge saw a body lying face downward, with a hat near by. There was considerable blood on the beams, and in front of the car which stood opposite. The ground was dup up, giv-and in front of the car which stood opposite. The ground was dug up, giving evidence of a struggle. R. Mullaly nexttestified that he knew the deceased very well. He went home with him the night before he was killed and left him at the gate. On the way out of the yard he saw a tramp in the bushes and chased him out. He was not sure, but thought that Sam kicked him. He also assisted Sam to put the Italians out of the yard. They got them across the track and the smaller one of the two asked them if they wanted to fight. We made no reply, but went home. Deceased did not say that he was afraid they would jump him during the night, for he was not afraid of any one.

him during the night, for he was not afraid of any one.

Sergeant Fletcher was then called, and he told about the arrest of the Italians, the finding of the pistol upon the person of the Italian who was not wounded, the visit to the spot where the body was found, and several unimportant details. At this stage in the proceedings a recess was taken until 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. THE AFTERNOON SESSION

George W. Pimer was the first wit ness sworn when the case was called at 2 o'clock. He stated that he is a car inspector in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company. He first saw the Italians Friday evening in a freight car that came in from the south. He asked them where they were going, and they told him they were on their way to San Francisco. He ordered them off the ground and told them to keep away. He again saw them Saturday evening, when they were trying to board a freight train for the north. He again saw the two Sunday morning, just after the killing, when they were taken to the yards by the police.

The shot man was then brought in and identified by witness.

Just before the officers took the man away witness suggested that the men be searched, as he noticed the deceased's pistol was not in his pocket.
One of the officers then searched the men and found Sam's pistol in the coat pocket of the smaller man.

J. D. Hughes testified that he is a special police officer, and said he was with deceased at 11 o'clock and he with deceased at 11 o clock and ne went in the waiting room at the San Fernando street depot and Sam ordered the smaller of the two men out of the room. The big one was not with him. Later in the night he and Sam found the two Italians in a box car and ran them off. Sam caned them.

Witness again saw Sam at fifteen minutes to 6 o'clock Sunday morning, when they reported off and both started home. Sam wanted witness to go up through the yards, as he thought the men were in the yards. But witness was sleepy and went straight home. He lives up on the hill only a short dis-He lives up on the nill pnly a short distance from where Sam was killed. He had just gone to bed when he heard a shot in the direction of where Sam's body was found. Three or four minutes later he heard another shot. He then got up and went down to the yards. During the night when Sam ordered the two men away the small one swore in two men away the small one swore in Spanish to get even with witness. Both men talked Spanish. W. J. Johnson stated that he lives near where deceased was killed. He has lived under a tree near the yards two years. Witness got up at 6:15 Sunday morning and walked down to the yards. He saw two men with blankets leaving the yards. They were going toward the river. He saw no one else around. Just before he got up he saw the watchman coming across the yards and heard him order two men out of a box car. He then heard the watchman knock one of them down. A few minutes later he heard two shots. He heard them quarreling and then they has lived under a tree near the yards heard them quarreling and then they fought. He did not know which one of the men got out first, but he was not seen. He was dressing when the fight took place. Two or three minutes after the shots were fired he saw the two men going toward the river. The men walked slowly away.

It is very evident from the witness' answers to questions that he saw the fight and knows all about it, but in his ignorance he is afraid that he will be ignorance he is arraid that he will be implicated in some way. He could not explain how he knew that the watchman knocked one of the men down, and simply stated that he heard him do it. John Talbert was called and shown the pistol found on one of the murderers. Witness stated that he loaned the pistol to deceased in Santenber last.

pistol to deceased in September last.
Dr. Bryant was sworn and stated that he was called early Sunday morning and saw both deceased and the wounded Italian. He rode back from the yards in the patrol wagon with the wounded man, who had a bullet wound in his left cheek. The bullet ranged down and and over him.

Witness was also present at the postmortem held. Deceased showed that he had been struck several times in the face and head, and a bullet hole was in the back part of the head. The bullet passed downward and forward. The man who made the wound must have been behind deceased or he could have reached around and presented the pistol from the back. The pistol might have been held a foot from deceased's head.

The unwounded Slav was brought in and made acquainted with his legal rights through an interpreter, and he gave his name as Andro Kandalec, and

The interpreter stated that the witness speaks a mixture of Slavonian and Hungarian, and it is impossible to understand him.

The jury was then taken to the City Prison to look at the other defendant, and it was decided to look up another interpreter.

A recess was then taken until 7 o'clock last night.

EVENING SESSION

When the Coroner's jury again met at 7:30 o'clock last evening, Detective Will Smith of the Southern Pacific stated that he made an examination of stated that he made an examination of the box car and the surrounding country Sunday morning just after the killing. The car had been removed, but he found a lot of blood in front of where the car stood on some cross-ties. He traced the blood thirty feet to a pile of timbers where the blood stains from the pile of lumber where the body was found. He then traced the blood stains from the pile of lumber where the body was found through the yards to the river where the two men washed. He then lost all trace of them. The body was carried and not dragged from the car to the pile of timbers. The blood on the timbers was from Leffler, where they placed him while they parted the logs to make a place where they could conceal the body.

A king-bolt that was found in the car where the men slept was displayed and witness is of the opinion that the men took it in the car to defend themselves against the dead watchman, and when against the dead watchman, and when one of them drew the king-bolt Sam drew his pistol and the fight took place. Andro Kandalec was recalled, and another interpreter was sworn. He stated that the watchman whipped his partner and himself, and he left them. Saturday night he and his partner went in the yards and found a pile of lumber near an empty car, and they placed their baggage on the pile of lumber, when witness left his partner to get some bread, and when he returned their bagtates had been removed. When he blankets had been removed. blankets had been removed. When he found his partner he told him that the watchman kicked him and licked him and removed their blankets. The watchman knocked his partner down, and kicked him several times. They both left, but returned in a short time, and found a brakeman, who promised to take them to San Francisco for 50 cents apiece, and told them to return at 6 o'clock. They then went to old man Johnson's hole under the tree, where the murder took place, and asked to be allowed to sleep with him, but he refused, and they went to the pile of lumber, where Leffier's bedware found. He protect to the pile of lumber where Leffier's Johnson's body was found. His partner went to sleep, but he went off to look for the brakeman. When he returned his part-ner told him it was too cold to sleep on the lumber and went in the car. Witness then went off to look for the brakeman, and found another brake man. It was then about 12 o'clock and the brakeman told him that there would be no more trains that night. When the watchman came up witness and his partner were on the lumber pile, and he whipped both of them. His-partner then got the watchman down and the watchman drew his pistol and shot his partner. His partner said he was killed, but he would help witness as much as he could, and then witness saw his partner grab the pistol from the watchman and shoot him in the head. watchman and shoot him in the head. The watchman and his partner were in the opening between the logs, and ness was only two feet away. His partner then threw the pistol down and witness picked the pistol up and placed it in his pocket. They then went to the river and washed their faces. Witness's face was so bloody from kicks in the face by the watchman that he Witness's face was so bloody from kicks in the face by the watchman that he could not see exactly how the watchman and his partner were lying when the shooting took place.

Witness was first attacked by deceased, and his partner was on the other side of othe car. When his partner heard the watchman kicking him, he came around from the car and grappled with the watchman. They were all three on the pile of lumber. He was so blinded from the blood that was flowing from his face that he could was so blinded from the blood that was flowing from his face that he could hardly see them, but they fell and were struggling between the logs when the watchman drew his pistol and shot. Witness was looking for the brakeman all night, and did not sleep with his partner in the car. His partner had the watchman down when the watchman shot him. It was pretty near five minutes between the two shots. As soon as his partner shot the watchman he said: "I have shot him dead, and he will quit now." The fight lasted ten or fitteen minutes. The blood on the ground and timbers was almost all from his partner. Witness and the watchman were fighting on the logs when the partner who had been whipped in from to f the car or behind it came up and pulled the watchman of came up and pulled the watchman off and grappled with him. It was then that the shooting took place. When the watchman pulled witness' partner from the car and kicked and

When the watchman pulled witness partner from the car and kicked and beat him, witness, who was on the logs, called for them not to fight. The watchman then hit his partner and came to him and began to kick and beat him, and she would shoot both of them. He had a pistolout. Witness partner then came up on the logs and grabbed the watchman, and they fell between the logs. Witness sat down on the logs two feet away from where they were struggling and saw the watchman shoot, and then in about five minutes his partner shot the watchman.

Witness then told how they went to the river and washed their faces and made their way to the restaurant, when they were found by the police. Witness denied that he or his partner went through the pockets of the watchman after he was shot. He met his partner in New Jersey last March, and they have been together ever since. Witness kept a lodging house in Perth Amboy, N. J., and he sold his furniture and sent his wife back to the old country and then they came by steamer to San Francisco. They were sent to Sacramento by the railroad company and then went to Lordsburg and worked six weeks on a new railroad. They then went to Fresno, where they worked two weeks. From there they went to San Francisco, but they could get no work. Three weeks ago they left San Francisco and went to Glia City, Ariž. They paid a brakeman $4 each to bring them to this city from Glia City. The brakeman put them in a car through a window. The blankets were rolled up in the car near the door and he took them out after the fight. His partner was standing just outside.

INO VERDICT.

After the last witness had been sent back to the City Prison, and while the Acter the last witness had been sent back to the City Prison, and while the jury was making up its verdict, Police Clerk Cottle telephoned the Coroner that the wounded Slavonian, who is in the receiving hospital, where he has been since the shooting, had so far recovered that he wanted to make a statement. The Coroner and the jury hurried down to the central police station, but the interpreter had disappeared and could not be found, so that the wounded man could not be examined. He stated in broken English, however, that deceased shot him while they were fighting on the timbers, and when his companion, who had just been whipped by the watchman, saw that he was getting the worst of it came up and grabbed the pistol from the watchman and shot the watchman. He would not make any further statement. The jury then deliberated on the evidence and decided that deceased came to his death from a pistol bullet fired by either Andre Kandales or Lohan Variety.

She Adored the Horse.

[New York Recorder.]

All the fun at the horse show is by no means confined to the ring or to the boxes blossoming with the belies and beaux of Gotham. Away down in the tortuous windings of the catacombs where the horses are stabled little comedies are being continually enacted. Here it is that the "horsey set" can indulge in equine discussion to their hearts' content, with living illustrations of their pet theories and untold object lessons in the various breeds.

One of the star attractions is Mr. A. Cassatt's splendid thoroughbred, The Bard. He is a magnificent specimen and

The Bard's cockney groom listened to this declaration with a quizzical expression on his stolid face. The he spoke something in an undertone to the horse, and the intelligent animal lifted his fine muzzle and laid it gently and caressingly on the cheek of the man. It was as near an eduine kiss as possible, and ingly on the cheek of the man. It was as near an equine kiss as possible, and the woman became instantly excited.

"Just look!" she exclaimed in a sharp half whisper: "Did you ever! He has actually kissed the man!"

Then her envy and adoration overcame her, and entering the box she laid her face on the shining flank of the great racer. The contact of the feathers in her headgear with his sensitive epiderracer. The contact of the leatners in her headgear with his sensitive epidermis tickled the horse, and pricking up his ears he swished his long, black tall and knocked her bonnet all awry. "Never mind, you beauty," she said, as she readjusted her millinery, "you can take any liberty with me you please."

Pasadena is a peace abiding community, and the morals of the town are of such a high order that it is only occasionally that anything happens within the borough limits to remind the residents that crime and wickedness, and bold, bad men exist here as elsewhere.

But on Sunday night at hours unknown no less than four houses were entered by thieves and the premises overhauled by the intruders in so sleek a manner that none of the occupants were disturbed in their slumbers. Harry Haskins' residence on Delacy street was one of the bouses picked out by the robbers. The first Harry knew of anything being wrong was yesterday morning. When he arose and proceeded to dress he found to his a mazement that his clothes were missing. A search revealed the fact that almost his entire wardrobe had been scattered about the yard in a reckless manner. The wearing apparel was wet, with the fog's moisture, and as Harry slowly gathered the dripping garments in and proceeded to investigate the condition of the pockets, there was but one piece of consolation left him, and that was that nothing but money to the amount of between $15 and $20 had been taken.

the condition of the pockets, there was but one piece of consolation left him, and that was that nothing but money to the amount of between $15 and $20 had been taken. Even his watch had been considerately left by the thieves. Entrance had been effected easily through an unlocked window.

W. C. Mason's house on the same street, and not far distant was also entered. As at Mr. Haskins', the clothing was overhauled for money, but only a small amount of change was captured, although a well-filled purse and a gold watch nestled on a bureau within easy reach.

The other houses spotted were on Old Fair Oaks avenue. At T. C. Foster's the intruder or intruders only got as far as the dining-room, where a serious inroad was made on the stock of cooked provisions. At the home of Dr. Wickens, Mr. Foster's next-door neighbor, an ineffective attempt to effect an entrance was made.

The work was evidently done by sneak-thieves rather than professional burglars. The police are keeping a sharp lookout for clews that will lead to discovering the identity of the offenders.

war incidents in which Capt. A. C. Drake, a well-known resident of Pasadena, took an active part.

In writing of the above the Captain says: "In reading the article in the Sunnay Times of November 29, headed 'In the Last Ditch,' it brought fresh to mind events which came under my observation on that memorable day. After attending to the wants of: those who were wounded in my own command, I went into Fort Gregg by passing on the south side and around the palisade spoken of in the article. On entering the fort I observed a number of men kneeling with their heads resting against the bank as if in prayer, but upon observation I saw they were dead, shot through the head, and I was reminded with what desperation they had fought.

"I shall never forget a little event in which I took a part, and I have always been thankful that I had the opportunity of doing what I did. There was a young boy who lay on the ground near the center of the fort. Some one had stuck his gun bayonet down into the ground, and under the hammer had hitched a piece of sheller tent with the other ends on the ground. In this way he was somewhat protected from the sun, having under his head his bundle of clothes. As I was passing him to go back to my command, I shall never forget the longing look that poor dying fellow fellow gave me and said, "Water, water," and the thankful expression that rested upon his face as I lifted him upon my knee and arm and gave him a drink from my canteen, and in this position he breathed his last. How many times I have thought of this occurence and wished that I knew that poor fellow's name, that I could let his friends know how he died—that it was in the arms of a Union soldier."

The Ojai Railroad Project Gradually Getting Into Shape.

A Home Company to Be Formed, if the Cross Agreement is Not Carried Out — A Dangerous Grade
—Notes and Personals.

The railroad proposition to the Ojai has been rather quiet lately, the projectors, or rather the committee appointed to represent the Ojai people, having devoted their time to getting matters into a practical shape. It is now said that if Cross of Los Angeles does not come up to his agreement a home company will be formed and an electric line will be built. The latter idea is pretty generally favored, and it seems pretty certain now that Ventura and the Ojai will be connected by a railroad before a year goes by. The Ojai is a region of country that would be very largely benefited by a road, as there are many thousands of by a road, as there are many thousands of acres there that would be turned to account and set out to fruit if the means of getting to and fro was easier. There is enough timber along the line of the proposed road to supply a very large proportion of South-ern California with fuel for the next ten Montijo, the Leather Worker, on His Muscle.

Profs. Ostrom and Knepper Assaulted on the Public Streets.

Neither of Them Showed Fight When the Attack Was Made. Their Assailant Arrested on Two Charge
—The Cause of the Difficulty—The Ortiz Adultery Case—The News in Brief.

THE TIMES conveys news to Santa Bar-bara twenty-four hours ahead of the San Francisco papers. The branch office and agency is at No. 713 State street where ad-vertisements, orders for the paper, and news items may be left.]

A very exciting episode took place in front of Otto Kaeding's place of business on State street in this city yesterday about 1 o'clock. At the time indicated George Montijo, an art leather stamper in the em ploy of the Mexican Art Leather Company of this city, was going toward the Commer-cial Hotel from his place of work in com-pany with two friends, when he met Prof. G. D. Ostrom of the city High school. Mon-G. D. Ostrom of the city High school. Montijo said to the Professor: "Now, sir, I am ready to settle with you," and proceeded to belabor the astonished tutor over the back with an orange-wood cane. Prof. Ostrom moved toward the postoffice and finally got beyond reach of the irate leather-worker.

The teacher was unarmed and made no attempt at resistance, so far as could be learned from a few eye-witnesses.

Montijo's blows did not seem to stagger the school man, who remained remarkably Montjo's blows did not seem to stagger the school man, who remained remarkably cool considering the circumstances. That he waspretty severely hurt there can be no doubt, but he pluckily bore the pain without wincing.

He declared his intention of having Montijo arrested at once.

Soon after the encounter Montijo was Soon after the encounter Montijo was met by the reporter on the street in a rather excited state of mind, and said: "I have had it out with him; I have settled with him for grossly insulting me in the presence of one of the finest ladies in this town. I told you he, should see me later, and he has," whereupon he exhibited a pretty heavy orange-wood cane, which had been broken in two at about one-third of its length from the small end. The correspondent had heard the complaint of Montijo about being insulted, as he claimed, by the Professor and knew at once what had happened.

about being insulted, as he claimed, by the Professor and knew at once what had happened.

The origin of the dimculty dates with the advent of the British man-of-war, Warspite, recently in this port. At the time there was agreat rush to see the fironclad, and among the number it was planned for the pupils of the High school to see her. With this end in view Capt. Ellis' steam yacht Santa Barbara was engaged by Profs. Knepper and Ostrom for the purpose indicated. About the time the yacht was ready to leave the wharf Mr. Montijo, in company with two young ladies, appeared and started down the gang plank to go aboard. Prof. Ostrom informed the gentleman that the trip was a special one and that the vessel had been chartered for the school only; the leather-stamper insisted on going on board and did so, claiming meanwhile that Capt. Ellis had promised him that he would take Montijo and party out to view the man-of-war and that it was the Captain's place to object or no one's. It seems that Capt. Ellis made no objection to Montijo or the ladies. On the contrary, the Captain assisted one of the ladies to come aboard. The incident led to words between Prof. Ostrom and the Californian on the trip, and when the wharf was reached on the return the latter said: "I'll see you later." Montijo claims to have been grossly insulted by Prof. Ostrom, and also claims that the instructor made a feint as if to draw a weapon from his hip-pocket before he was struck yesterday. This allegation, however, was not contirmed by the bystanders who witnessed the meeting. Prof. Ostrom's friends claim that Montijo is alone to blame for the whole difficulty. They say that he was the insulter and not the insulted; that he had no right on the vessel, and that his manner was overbearing while on the craft.

Anorther Assault.

ANOTHER ASSAULT.

ANOTHER ASSAULT.

About an hour after the encounter recited above Montijo met Prof. Knepper, superintendent of the city schools, near the same spot where he had "seen" Prof. Ostrom, and, calling to the Professor, said:

"Mr. Knepper, can I see you!" The school mar answered: "I don't know you;" but the puglistic Montijo was not to be put off that way, and so followed up the instructor and struck him in the back of the head with his (Montijo's) fist, but the blow did very little damage. The Professor turned on his heel and managed to ward off other blows intended for him by Montijo, and was soon after the latter incident a warrant was sworn out for Montijo's arrest on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

was sworn out for Montijo's arrest on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Montijo has been here but a few months, and has never been in any dimculties heretofore. He came here from, San Diego, where he was formerly a deputy constable, and was very popular with the boys. He is a hard-working man and has attended strictly to business since he came here, but is known to possess an ungovernable temper. He is a young man, well muscled, and will weigh about 200 pounds. Montijo was arraigned and gave bonds of $300 for assault with deadly weapons.

The case of the People vs. Mrs. Lina Ortiz, charged with adultery by her husband, was charged with adultery by her husband, was being argued before Judge Wheaton yesterday afternoon on a motion to dismiss on the grounds that the justice failed to take the deposition of Ortiz when he was her. The woman had formerly lived there and had worked hard, so these officers say, and had been deserted by her husband, who now seeks to prosecute her.

The desert romance of J. J. Stansbury and wife, which was first told in the and whe, which was list told in the Mail, has had a strange history. Wit-ness the facts: First the Mail pub-lished it; the Los Angeles Herald re-published it as its own; the San Fran-cisco Chronicle again published it and credited it to the Herald; then it was issued to the world in plate matter with the same credit. Now comes the final act, and the affair becomes laughable. Yesterday's Chronicle contained a long article from the New York Sun on the subject of "courting by wire." In the course of it the Sun says: "Women as a rule, telegraphers say, do not touch the key of their instruments as firmly as men do. Occasionally, however, there is one without this characteristic distinction in her style. The following story is told in a little journal decredited it to the Herald: then it was distinction in her style. The following story is told in a little journal devoted to the profession." Then follows the Mail's desert romance yarn nerbatim et literatim. Concluding it the Sun sagely remarks: "Old-timers can recall a few similar cases, but only a few." The writer who also meet the support of the control of the support o recall a few similar cases, but only a few." The writer, who also wrote the original desert-romance lie, presumes that old-timers would recall only a few such cases. And it may be well, before the discussion becomes too scientific and the Chronicle again publishes the story as republished by the London Times from the Central Asiatic Railroader, to announce that we will not be responsible in any way for any sexvariation argument that is based upon it. When we thought and thought, and finally evolved the fiction, we did not have the scientific problems involved in view. Philosophers may have our little yarn to prove anything they wish, but we cannot and will not be responsible for the conclusions they base upon it. It is nough to have thought out the lie in the first place.

In the dooryard of A. H. Tufts there is a young orange tree that is a marvel. It was a small tree, budded one year when set two years ago—in June, 1889. It is now not a large tree, and the wonder is how it can support the enormous crop of fruit it has. There are 206 fine large oranges on this There are 200 nne large oranges on this tree, and they are coloring like those upon trees bearing but a few. It is a Malta blood, and made a good growth the first year and a moderate growth this year. For a long time I have been suffering with bladder and kidney troubies. No dectoring or medicines seemed to do me good. I consulted the best physicians and surgeons in Los Angelescity. They gave me morphine and drugs, but no relief could I obtain. After suffering great pain and having my passage almost entirely clogged. I fourteen days ago began using Dr. Woh's medicines. Today I am perfectly well. I do consider Dr. Woh the most successful physician in Southern California. C. A. STEELE.

Another Addition to the Diversified Industries of the County.

A Factory to be Established for Making Boxes-Work to Begin at Once on the Beet Lines-Brief News of Interest.

San Bernardino county has added to its already diversified industries a mill for the conversion of the timber on the mountains into boxes. Probably no section of the world uses as many boxes as will be required in Southern California when the orchards are in full bearing.

In this connection, the remarkable qualifications of San Bernardino county to pro-duce and prepare fruit for market without cailing in outside help are worthy of notice. The quality and quantity of land and water is beyond question. In one corner of the is beyond question. In one corner of the county a factory is producing the sugar to sweeten it. Iron and tin for the manufacture of cans in which to preserve it exist within its borders, and now comes the boxes in which to pack and ship it. Surely with such a galaxy of resources prosperity and contentment should reign.

A force of men and teams will begin work this morning on the San Bernardino Valley belt lines. Ties and rails are being delivered and bridge builders are on hand to bridge Santa Ana River. All prepara-tions bridge to mick work

A Hint for Fruit-growers. [San Francisco Examiner.]

The experience of the fruit growers in the past season has given some points, for dealing with future seasons that should be remembered. The large yield snoutable remembered. The large yield of fruit and the good crops in the East lessened the immediate demand to an extent that gave opportunity for buyers' combinations to control prices. Instances in which such combinations have pushed the price to producers below a fair margin are numerous, and some growers report sales at a loss low a fair margin are numerous, and some growers report sales at a loss.

The producers have the remedy for this evil in their own hands if they know how to use it. The report published a few weeks of the shipment by the Niles fruit-growers of a train of twelve cars of dried fruit to-Chicago contained an example to the producers of all other localities. The Niles producers organized early in the season to resist the cannery buyers' "combine," and, instead of taking what was offered them, dried their own fruit, shipped it through their own organization, and realized good returns for it.

The same course is open to others.

is no reason why they should not be as successful in this as buyers. The comsuccessful in this as buyers. The combination of all the producers of a neighborhood would have many advantages over single producers in shipping and selling. If they were properly combined there would be no need to sell fruit at a loss, or to allow any of it to go to waste. If the organization could not get good rates for fruit delivered green, it could get it for dried fruit. Every pound of fruit worth picking could thus be saved and disposed of profitably.

As a matter of course an organization could not get good prices for bad fruit. It could not make it worth while to grow fruit that people do not like to eat. But it would enable the producer to get his chare of the profit in marketing. his share of the profit in marketing good fruit. So much is worth doing, and the example or those who have suc-ceeded should be followed.

A Spirited Competition for California Excursion Business.

be Another Through Line of Tourist Sleeping Cars.

Ticket Commissions to be Resumed by the Burlington.

The Fresno Shops Cut Rates to Eastern Points-The Southern Pacific's Taxes-General and Local

The excursion business to California is becoming so important a factor in trunk line traffic as to demand the serious consideration of many general pas-senger agents. People will come to California, and the selection of the route hither will be influenced by the advantages which the competing roads can offer. The most comforts and the fewest changes of cars are items which have much to do with catching the travelers, be they male or female, .experienced or "green." Through sleeping cars, especially of the "tourist" kind. are growing in popularity and number, and several lines of them are being run daily and periodically between East-ern cities and the Pacific Coast. Now the Vanderbilt lines, which have grown so rich as to find it unneces-sary to offer extraordinary inducements sary to offer extraordinary inducements to secure travel, are figuring on catching some of the California business, which hitherto has escaped them. They propose to run tourist sleepers through without change between New York and San Francisco every two weeks, or oftener if found desirable, by way of the New York Central, Michigan Central, Northwestern, Union Pacific and Central Pacific roads.

SCRAP-HEAP. Nearly all the Western roads that do any grain carrying business are ex-periencing a car famine.

Within fifteen months after January 1 a new railroad will be built from the Oregon Short Line to Eureka, according to report.

The Rock Island Road accuses the Burlington of manipulating the $15 passenger rate from Kansas City to Cin-passenger rate from Ransas City to Cin-cinnati by way of Chicago. One San Francisco scalper dares the Interstate Commerce Commission spot-ter by proclaiming cut rates to Eastern cities amounting to as much as $2 on a ticket.

With the inauguration of the fast train service on the Colorado Midland the Santa Fé will run through cars be-tween Chicago and San Francisco by that route, which will give that road a second through line to the Pacific Coast.

At Sacramento, Saturday, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company paid to Controller Colgan $257,261.82. This is the first installment for taxes for the following roads; California Pacific, Central Pacific, Northern Railway Company, Northern California, Southern Pacific and South Pacific Coast.

It is stated that nearly all of the new roadbed of the Southern Pacific line in roadbed of the Southern Pacine line in Artizona-about twenty-six miles in the Gila Valley—is graded and ready for the rails. Chief Engineer Hood of that company thinks that the construction of this piece of road on higher ground has effectually placed it above the reach of floods.

The Executive Committee of the San Francisco Traffic Association held a pro longed discussion, at the last meeting, over plans by which similar associations in interior towns might coöperate with the San Francisco organization. A number of plans were proposed, but were disapproved as being not snitable, and the matter will be taken up again.

General Passenger Agent Eustis, of General Passenger Agent Eustis, of the Burlington road, said yesterday: "We are on the point of giving fiotice of a resumption of commission paying in all Eastern territory, but we shall give the Board of Rulings one last chance to redeem its promises. If it fails to do so we shall be obliged to pro-tect ourselves." It is Mr. Eustis who is accused of giving the evidence upon which so many Lake Shore ticket agents were discharged for receiving commis-sions from outside roads.

Work will be commenced on a railroad from the Oregon Short Line to Eureka within fifteen months from January 1st next. It is intended to begin work at both ends of the line. The Southern Pacific will not be interested in the road, and it will be operated by an inde-pendent company, which has not yet been incorporated. Encouraging news has been received from Europe with regard to the probability of disposing bonds of the road. A subsidy of $3 000 will be required from Humboldt

The Fresno Republican says that a few weeks ago, the committee of 300 of Tulare notified the Southern Pacific people that by the following Tuesday night the Chinese section hands would have to be dispensed with or there would be trouble. On the Tuesday afternoon indicated the Southern Patific Company had packed up its division headquarters and before the sun set the train carrying the effects was on its way to Fresno. The moving has been going on steadily ever since. Saturday a long train reached that city bringing the machinery of the repair shop and expublics. supplies.

A SENSATIONAL STORY.

How a Little Incident was Magnified by Onite a sensational story was started yesterday to the effect that a bride of only five weeks had deserted her hus-band. The gossips had it that the young people, who are quite well known young people, who are quite well known in this city, took up their residence when they were married two weeks ago in a fashionable boarding house.

For a few days all went well, and no one would have suspected anything wrong had it not been for a chambermaid in the boarding house, who in a fit of absent-mindedness one evening placed her car to the keybole of the young her ear to the keyhole of the couple's room and overheard a conver ner ear to the keyhole of the young couple's room and overheard a conversation that grew not only exciting but decidedly vigorous ås it progressed.

Finally the bridegroom told his young bride that he must have a certain sum of money with which to start in business for himself, and if she did not produce it there would be trouble. The bride became very angry and the next day she deserted her husband.

A Times representative called at the house last night and was assured by the landlady that there is no truth whatever in the story. It is true the bride has gone to San Francisco, but she went in response to a telegram calling her there on business and left all her baggage in the room in charge of her husband. They were married five weeks ago and the wife left for the north last Sunday.

The question is frequently asked how can the Pa ific Loan Company sell such fine silverware at such low prices, the goods being made by well-known manufacturers having a reputation for mak-ing best quality wares of latest styles and designs handsomely engraved?

and designs handsomely eugraved?

The explanation is the goods are being disposed of to cover cash advances made on them, and the stock being so large for this market and the time so short to sell them in, it was concluded, in order to insure a quick sale, to fix the prices at just enough to cover the loan and the expenses of selling, and one-half of the original prices accomplishes the purpose.

AN OPEN LETTER! VERY IMPORTANT!

To Those Who Have Learned the Lesson in . GEOGRAPHY=

And all others interested, I wish to say a few words further regarding the East Whittier property. A good many have made inquiries, some have purchased, but we still have choice locations. Those who come first will get the choice. We expect many eastern people here to locate during the winter. There is no question as to the richness of the soil and the beauty of location, or to its adaptability to orange raising, and it is pronounced by experts the very choicest of lemon land. Lemons and Oranges are without question the wealth-producing fruits of Southern California, and the one who has ten acres or more in bearing orchards of these fruits has a fortune, not for today but for a lifetime, continually increasing; better than a settled annuity. The mesa land on the southern slope of the Puente Hills, from the Rincon Gap eastward, beautiful, rich, sheltered, warm in winter, cool in summer, is the garden spot of Los Angeles county and Southern California; Whittier and East Whittier the choicest of the choice. The magnificent East Whittier water system, with a capacity of 20,000,000 gals, daily now carrying 5,000,000 gals, makes the future of this tract of land assured. The fountain artesian wells of the company have just been measured and show a variation of only 2 per cent. frem their flow when first open, establishing the permanency of the flow. For the present the price of the East Whittier tract is $200 per acre with water, and you get a clean title to both. The terms are liberal, one quarter down, balance in one, two and three years at 7 per cent. We do not sell to speculators, only to those who will improve, thus insuring the best class of people. The East Whittier Academy, just opened with most promising outlook; best of teachers and good attendance. A Friends' Church, with fine buildings and the most prosperous and largest society in Southern California. An M. E. Church, with a large and growing society and fine building. Also a Baptist society. Here you have all the advantages of suburban life and society,

No Unusual Excitement!

But a steady, healthy growth from the start that cannot be repressed and has never been equaled in Southern California.

TEN YEARS.

Extracts from Our Forthcoming Decennial Number.

The City and County of Los Angeles, Past and Present.

A Sober Story That Reads Like a Wild Remance:

Pueblo to Metropolis - Striking Achievements in the Work of Material Develcoment.

[The annexed excracts from the first part of the forthcoming Decennial Anniversary Number of The Times, to be issued next Friday morning, give some idea of the scope of the publication.]

In the following pages will be found truthful, unwarnished account of the growth of Lor: Angeles during the past ten years; a narrative of the most im portant events affecting the material progress of the city during that period; a description of Los Angeles as it was in 1881 and as it is today, and a compre hensive report of the manner in which the resources of the county are being developed. It is upon these resources that the faith of Angeleños in a future growth equaling, if not exceeding, that of the past, is based. The rise and progress of the city is shown from the -only a short ten years ago-when the county was covered mainly with large Spanish grants, upon which cattle grazed and sheep browsed; when the traveler could ride for half a day in many directions without encountering any sign of civilization; when farm nouses were few and far between, and the main industries were the production of wool and hides; when towns outside of Los Angeles in the county were few and very small; when most of our fruits were imported from the North; when the only line of railroad to the East ran by way of San Francisco; when the population of the city was only 11,000 and of the whole county outside—which then included what is now Orange county-only 22,000. Today we have in the county, not including Orange considerably over 100,000 populion, and within the city limits over 100,000 popula least 55,000, placing Los Angeles in the position of the second city in the State. A score of flourishing towns, with populations of several thousand apiece, have sprung up in places where not a house stood ten years ago. Where, in 1881, sheep and cattle ranged are now seen orchards of oranges, lemons olives, apricots, peaches, walnuts, and vineyards of choice wine, raisin and table grapes, the product of which finds ready sale in every quarter of the globe. Over 10,000,000 fruit trees are now growing in the county, and our exports of oranges alone from Los Angeles county will this season amount to 500,000 boxes. The assessed value of the city's wealth has increased seven fold, and the banks of the county hold deposits to the amount of $12,000,000. A large and beautiful city has grown up within these ten years, and chiefly within the past five. In place of muddy highways we have graded and paved streets; in place of one-story adobe structures we have magnificent business blocks and public buildings that would challenge admiration in any of the largest cities of the country; in place of

The progress of Los Angeles during the past ten years, as recorded in these pages, has been great; but he is indeed blind who does not see that this progress has but just begun. With more fruit trees planted during the past twelve months than were growing a year ago; with nine-tenths of our markets vet untouched; with hundreds of thousands of fertile acres within the county yet unimproved, it needs no high order of prophetic vision to see in the Los Angeles of 1900 a city thrice as large, thrice as populous and thrice as wealthy as that of today. Unless there should come some unforeseen cataclysm of nature, changing the entire conditions of this region. Los Angeles will, at the end of this decade, contain a population of 150,000 and the county one of 500,000, while THE TIMES will print every day in the year as many copies as it does of this annual number, which we now present to an intelligent and discriminating public.

The change in the appearance of Los Angeles during the past ten years has been so remarkable that persons who visited it then and who return now can scarcely recognize it as the same city. In 1881 the Spanish quarter, with its low, one-story adobe houses, was still an important part of the city, and adobe houses and stores were numerous else where. The residences were nearly all of the cottage order, and few business buildings rose above two stories. The only blocks of importance were those named after Baker, Temple and Dow-ney, the first-named being really the only building in the city of any architectural pretensions. In the last-named was located the office of this paper.

Much business vet clustered about the Plaza, around the little park in the center of which was a handsome row of century illust well-trimmed cypress trees. The business center was then at the Temple Block, the business quarter being bounded on the north by the Plaza and on the south by First street. Where the Nadeau Hotel now stands was a German butcher shop, in an adobe building, back of which was a horse corral and hay yard. Adjoining on Spring street on the south was a planing mill. Spring street, south of First had more bare lots than residences and no stores, for business had not then be gun to move so far south. Property on Spring street, between First and Second, was sold at $150 a foot, which was considered a very high price. At two other corners of First and Spring were a saloon and a coal-yard. The Wilcox Block on North Spring, where Jevne's grocery now is, was the only good business building on Spring street. Where the Phillips Block now stands was an old one-story adobe building used as a city jail.

The fire-alarm system of Los Angeles was very primitive in those days. It is thus described by a citizen to a visitor: "We turn in an alarm by sound—that is, when there is a fire a policeman fires his pistol in the air two or three times, the fire bells take it up and out comes the fire department quicker than a 'wink.' Oh, yes, it's away ahead of any of your new-fangled systems."
"But suppose the police fire two or three

"But snppose the police fire two or three times at a thief-what then? Will the fire-men turn out?"

"No; you see when an officer fires at a flying thief he shoots 'low down,' but in turning in an alarm he throws his hand over his head and blazes away. A good fireman can always, tell the difference in the sound."

Figueroa street, to which you now rigueroa street, to which you now return, is the bon ton residence street of the city. It and its northern exten-sion, Pearl street, extend for nearly five miles from north to south. On this street are to be found some of the handsomest residences in Southern California, many of them standing in grounds of rare beauty. The street is shortly to be paved for its whole length with asphaltum, which will still further increase its attractiveness. You can take a Figueroa-street horse car back to Ninth and Grand avenue, whence you can walk to the engine house and board a Seventh-street car for Westlake Park. Seventh street is another favorite residence street and is destined favorite residence street and is destined to become an important thoroughfare, as it extends from the western to the eastern city limits. It is elevated, which, to many, gives it a preference over the southwestern part of the city. Westlake Park, on the western city limits, is a pretty, breezy spot. It will gain much in beauty after the trees shall have attained a larger growth. The lake is well provided with boats, which are liberally patronized, and a band plays once a week. A climb of a few minutes up one of the surrounding hills will reward you with some expansive views of the country between Los Angeles and the ocean.

An Affectionate Tribute to the Grand Old Hero.

How His Voice Was Raised for the Cause of Freedom

And How His Sword Was as Ready as His Voice.

Glance at an Episode in California's Early History-The Oration Over Senator Broderick's

A movement is now in progress to raise a monument to the memory of Col. E. D. Baker, one of the brightest and most patriotic figures that grace the pages of American history. The following sketch of Baker's life and character, written by Edward B. erome, captain and aide-de-camp on Baker's staff and now secretary of the Monument Association, is therefore very appropriate:

sociation, is therefore very appropriate:

Col. E. D. Baker, who was killed at Balls's Bluff, was of English birth, but with his parents came to this country when he was 4 years of age. His father was a man of education and refinement; his mother—a sister, of Capt. Thomas Dickinson of the British nayy. He found a stopping place first in Philadelphia, but in 1825 the elder Baker, inhelled by that restless spirit of adventire and enterprise which seems the heritage of the race, turned his face to the sunset and Journeyed until. tired of wandering, he rested in the rich valley of the Wabash; only a little while he tarried åth then—on to St. Clair, Ill. His son, Edward, a handsome lad of 17, by the grace and dignity of his bearing and by his personal beauty, became a general favorite in the best society there; he was well received in the family of Gov. Edwards, a magnificeut old gentleman in high-topped boots and ruffied wrist-bands, who added to a character of generosity and executive ability the grand signeur airs of the old school. Young Baker availed himself with a rare memory—one of those kind wax to receive and marble to retain.

It was here that he laid the foundation of his future; soon after, moving to Carrolton in the same State, he was admitted to receive and marble to retain.

It was here that he laid the foundation of his future; soon after, moving to Carrolton in the same State, he was admitted to the bar at the age of 19, and speedily became logally famous. In 1837, when Dan Stone, the member of the Illinois Legislature who joined Abraham Lincoln in what his opponents styled the "abolition protest," resigned his seat to accept a place on Stone, the member of the Illinois Legislature who joined Abraham Lincoln in what his opponents, styled the "abolition protest," resigned his seat to accept a place on the Supreme bench, Baker was elected to fill the vacancy and thereafter reelected. He was subsequently State Senator from 1840 to 1844, at which time he was elected to Congress from the Sangamon District. While serving there with distinction the Mexican war broke out, and, though opposed to its inception, the call of his country was then, as afterward, imperative to him. There was something in his veins that would not let him be quiet when fighting was going on. He had some little experience in the Black Hawk war with Lincoln, Robert Anderson and Jeff Davis, who were there. He hurried home to Illinois, raised a regiment and went to the war; upon his arrival at Matamoras he was sent back as a bearer of dispatches. When he came to Washington (Congress being in session), he availed himself of his privilege as a member of the House to argue in a speech of great fire and force the cause of the volunteers, resigned his seat and then returned to the front. He was there in time to share in the victory at Vera Cruz, and went to the interior with the main body of Scott's army. When Shields fell at Cerro Gordo, Baker, without an instant's hestlation or confusion, assumed command and magnificently stormed the heights.

After the war he returned to Illinois, and finding that his friend Abraham Lincoln had been elected to fill the vacancy in Congress caused by his resignation, went to the Galena District, and in a few months had so won the hearts of the people-there, that they sent him to Congress, although had so won the hearts of the people there, that they sent him to Congress, although he was a Whig, and the district was largely he was a Whig, and the district was largely Democratic.

He served his last term in Congress with great industry, his principal oratorical effort being the pathetic and musical eulogy on the death of his old commander, Gen. Taylor, who went from the White-House to heaven. Declining a reëlection, his restiess, impatient nature carried him to the Isthmus of Panama, in connection with the construction of the railroad—but in the depths of the matted rankness of the forest, on the humid banks of the sluggish rivers, lying in the night in the tangled lüxuriance of the wilderness, he was attacked with Panama fever, and his brother, the talented and genial Dr. A. C. Baker, bore him back to Illinois, to the familiar skies and honest air of the prairies. There skies and honest air of the prairies. There he slowly recovered, but his heart leaned westward, and in 1852 he came to this State and began life again amid the wild tumult of our earlier years. Among the lawyers of California Baker easily took the lead. The astonishing ease and fluency of his diction and his marvelous quickness of apprehension, rendered his pleadings models of perspicuity and force, without verbiage or ornament. He was popular in California in spite of

He was popular in California in spite of He was popular in Cantornia in spite of his politics, and as years passed on the North became divided on the terribly perplexing question of slavery in the Territories. Broderick, one of the truest diamonds that ever existed in the rough, battled with unavailing pluck for what he deemed the right; but his ticket was defeated, and he was builled into the folly that his better judgment condemned—and that his better judgment condemned-and was slain.

By common consent Baker was the funeral orator. Oh! ye oid Californians, do you not remember that day when ye stood in the plaza with uncovered heads and tearful eyes and listened to that speech?

"The last word must be spoken, and the imperious mandate of death must be fulfilled—thus, oh, brave heart, we bear thee grave."

"As in life, no other voice among us rang its trumpet blast upon the ear of free man; so in death, its echoes will reverberate amidst our mountains and in our valleys until truth and valor cease to appeal to the human heart. Good friend true hero, hall and farewell."

After Evoletick's death Baker, as if to and farewell."

After Broderick's death Baker, as if to free himself from the haunting presence of Terry's unatoned crime, went to Oregon. Through a combination of circumstances he was elected to the United States Senate; coming to California on his way to the Capitol he was received at the boat by a vast concourse of his admirers and conveyed to the American Theater, where a magnificent audience had assembled to hear him speak. It was there, as he stood before that 'fiftighty audience, that he gave utterance to this splendid apostrophe to liberty;

"On liberty," he cried, "It is the Genlus of Liberty we worship today. I have seen her cloven down on a hundred battlefields. I have seen her enemies bind her to the stake. I have seen them consume her body to ashes and give them to the four winds of Heaven, and regather them that they might scatter them yet more widely than before. "Yet, when they paused and proudly turned to exult, they beheld her standing before them resplendent, clad in a panoply of complete steel and brandishing in her strong right hand a sword, red, with insufferable light—unconquerable and invincible.

"The genius of liberty will lead us to a After Broderick's death Baker, as if to wincible.

"The genius of liberty will lead us to a glorious triumph. Years, years ago, I took my stand by freedom, and where the feet of my youth were planted, there shall they march in my manhood and my age."

Passing on he went to Washington. There he clasped hands with his old-time friend, Abraham Lincoln, in the White House—there he pledged himself anew to freedom; and those who heard it will never forget the magnificent burst of red.hot rhetoric with which he electrified the crowding thousands that filled Union Square in New York, April, 1861.

It was a mighty assemblage, great in numbers, tremendous in enthusiasm and awful in its earnestness: some speakers simply raved; some, wishing to be solemn, prosed. There were few who could ride on that whirlwind and direct that storm. Baker was one. From the instant when his graceful form was seen on the stand—his handsome pale face, but quiet, his eye herce in its brilliancy, his white hair crowning his spiendid head like a halo—and the tones of his clear, bugle-like voice rang out on the air in the words, "the majesty of the people is here today to sustain the majesty of the Constitution," to the moment when he closed in a gust of passionate plaudits, he held that audience fettered and still. A visible thrill ran through the dense when he closed in a gust of passionate plaudits, he held that andlence fettered and still. A visible thrill ran through the dense mass when, in closing, he consecrated himself anew to freedom and to his country in these words of exquisite melody:

"And if from the far Pacific a voice feebler than the feeblest murmur upon its shore may be heard to give you courage and hope in this contest, that voice is yours to day—and if a man whose hair is gray, who is well-nigh worn out in the battle and toil of life, may pledge himself on such an occasion and in the presence of such an audience—let me say, as my last word, that, as when amidst sheeted fire and fame I saw and led the hosts of New York as they charged in the contest on a foreign soil for the honor of our flag—so again, if Providence wills it, this feeble hand will draw a sword never yet dishonored, not to fight for distant honor in a foreign land, but to flight for country, for home, for law, for Government, for Constitution, for right, for freedom, for humanity, and in the hope that the banner of my country may advance, and wheresoever that banner waves, there glory may pursue and freedom be established."

vance, and wheresoever that banner waves, there giory may pursue and freedom be established."

This was no idle trick of rhetoric. Before the echoes of his words had died away he was hard at work recruiting his California regiment, and he went from the Senate, where fame and glory awaited him, to the tented field, where death claimed him. And did he not faithfully, gloriously fulfill that vow? Aye. It was his inspiring call that awoke the spirit of freedom in the hills and valleys of California. It was he who bore her standard from the sources of the San Joaquin, over the plains, through the valleys of the north, and planted it between the sturdy arms of the Columbia, within the empire of Mount Hood, Rainer, Adams and St. Helen's, where the turbulent falls of the Columbia answer from afar the sweet-singing cataracts of the Yosemite. It was he who struck down the Judas is cariot Benjamin and the traitor Breckin ridge in the halis of the United States Senate; and while still marching upon the highway where the feet of his youth had been planted, it was he—in himself, Ciccro and Cæsar, Cato and Leonidas—who at length fell at the head of a forlorn hope, offering up his life in its very fulness and its prime to the glory of the spirit of his devotion. It was there that Baker disappeared behind the scenes forever. Naught came back but the shattered, soulless clay from the bloody fields of Balis Bluff to rest on the dreary height of Lone Mountain

And now, when the landward breezes come in from the boundless ocean to grieve and sob amid the splendid monuments erected over the ashes of lesser men, the spirit of that freedom which he worshiped with all the fervor of a great soul droops beside a grave almost unmarked, points reproachfully at the people of California and sceris to utter the pathetic interrogatory of the dying warrior of the Alleghanies; "Who is there to mourn for Logan!"

LADIES' ANNEX.

Regular Weekly Meeting Yesterday— World's Fair Work.

The Ladies' Annex held its regular weekly meeting yesterday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce with Mrs. Hartwell, the president, in the chair. Plans for a display at the coming citrus fair were further discussed and a picnic to the old home of Don Pio Pico was proposed for next week. All members

The joint report of the Chief of Police and License Collector, showing the sale of thirty-four wagon numbers, was also referred to the Auditor.

The report of the City Auditor, show ing the condition of the funds for the month ending October 31 last was re-ferred to the Finance Committee, as were also those of the same official confirming the monthly reports of the various city officers for October and showing the condition of the funds for the week ending November 21.

The report of the City Attorney was read and the various routing matters.

read and the various routine matters were disposed of. In regard to the street sprinkling contract, the attorncy reported: "I have prepared a sprinkling contract according to instructions, but I understand from members of the Council that there are some additional Council that there are some additional clauses which will be required, and therefore advise that the matter be referred to a special committee in con-nection with the City Attorney to draft a contract." Referred to Board of Puba contract." Referred to Board of Pub-lic Works with instructions to report at the afternoon session.

The Finance Committee presented its report, and the various recommendations were adopted.

COUNCILMAN REES ON THE MAYOR.

At this juncture Councilman Rees arose to a question of privilege, and stated that as the Mayor had seen fit to make a personal attack upon him, he considered that he was entitled to another showing. The Mayor's reply to the speaker's criticism of his mes-sage last week, stripped of its redun-dant verbiage and self-laudation, might be stated thus:

He was not a member of the Park Com-mission September, 1890, and did not ap-prove the Chase demand. He had the right to draw $25 from the emergency fund be-cause the expenses of himself and wife to Sacramento and back amounted to $133. Sacramento and back amounted to $133. It must have been an emergency within the meaning of the law because no objection was raised by the City Clerk and Treasurer. The claim of O'Melveny & Henning should have been paid, notwithstanding he had not been authorized to engage them at the city's expense. He had deemed it wise to hire them and that should be sumcient. It was right for him to draw $54 out of the emergency fund, although a violation of the law, because he could not be expected to humble himself sumciently to ask the Council to advance a sum to cover this expense, which he was daily expecting.

I think I have laid the Mayor under great obligation to me for affording him an opportunity to rehearse, like an Indian brave, his deeds of valor and acts of charity. I portunity to rehearse, like an Iudian brave, his deeds of valor and acts of charity. I admit that I erroneously charged him with being a member of the Park Commission in September, 1890. But he concedes that the Chase contract was begun while he was a member of the Board, and claims that Chase was notified that only $300 worth of work was ordered by that contract. The contract was only verbal and no requisition was passed, so if the Mayor's statement is true is proves that in this matter he was guilty of a more flagrant breach of the law than this Council. Why did not the Board pay Mr. Chase $300 when that amount of work was done? The Mayor says that was the understanding. Evidently because his contract was, not finished. He had agreed to do a certain amount of work and they would not pay him until it was completed. The work amounted to $953, and the charter required that bids be advertised for, but they did not comply with the law, and Mayor Hazard knows it. The fact of the Park Commissioners organizing under the State law, subsequent to the letting of that verbal contract, did not legalize their illegal act committed prior thereto. The State law empowered the board to suspend the park fund without Council's permission, then why did they not pay that demand law empowered the board to suspend the park fund without Council's permission, then why did they not pay that demand without asking permission of the Council's Evidently because the verbal contract was entered into before they began to operate under the State law, and the Mayor was in a hole when he approved the demand; ala hole when he approved the demanded though he is too stubborn to admit it.

though he is too stubborn to admit it. The Mayor says (referring to me.) "to deny him the right to deal in fiction would be to rob him of his stock in trade." I propose to show that His Honor is a whole-sale dealer in fiction. Let us see how great and sudden the emergency was for him to get that $25 to go to Sacramento. January 31.he, was convjinced that it was his duty to go north to get the bill amending the charter passed. He must go immediately as the gonorth toget the bill amending the charter passed. He must go immediately, as the time in which bills could be introduced was drawing to a close. On this day he drew from the city treasury his January salary, $300. Apparently this was not quite enough money to take him to Sacramento in proper style, because on this same day he explained to City Clerk Teed that he did not have the necessary funds to go and in proper style, because on this same day he explained to City Clerk Tred that he did not have the necessary funds to go and must abandon the trip, because the time was too short to bring the matter in the usual way before the Council. Well, time was feeting and our city would go to the dogs if Mayor Hazard did not go to Sacramento and prevent the mischief. I am glad to see, according to his own intimation, that he was reluctant about taking money out of this fund, but he finally yielded to the importunities of the City Clerk, and January 31 a check was drawn for $25 on the emergency fund. The need of His Honor's presence at the State capital was becoming extraordinary, but the Treasurer was not called on for that $25 until February 2. Having—at last succeeded in getting his hand into the treasury "through this little back door," you will all imagine that he started north without delay to save us from impending ruin, but he did not. The emergency was not so great after he this little back door, 'you will all imagine that he started north without delay to save us from impending ruin, but he did not. The emergency was not so great after he got the money. About February 7 this pompous tin-and-tines! savior of our city started leisurely north. Now, what need of all this bosh and bathos about the emergency of his going? Why all this subterruge and faction about the impossibility of getting the appropriation from the Council in the usual way? On the very day that Mayor Hazard drew the $25 from the emergency fund, February 2, this Council held its regular meeting; still our immaculated held its regular meeting; still our immaculated Mayor has the superlative gall to tell the intelligent people of this city that it was impossible for him to obtain this fiction is an outrage on charity, but its best to err on the side of mery. The Mayor says: "God Almighty never made the man who caught him in a hole he could not get out of." He can make an ingentious ladder with his tongue, upon which he climbs. Now I ask our discerning citizens, whose cheek should blush with confusion. Whose head should hang in shame? Verily 'Wour Harry' can beat "Old Harry' in the prevarication business. The Mayor forgets the adage which, says: Those who do not tell the truth should have good memories. This rollicking romancer says he sent and obtained railry ad tickets for himself and wife, for which he subsequently hald $60. He procured railroad passes, impending ruin, but he did no and he knows they were passes, although he calls them tickets. When he returned from Sacramento he probably thought he could make a little political capital if he insisted on paying his fare? After procuring and using these passes he has the effrontery to tell the public that "I ride on a free pass and lunch at the city's expense." The Mayor is like the smart thief, who, when being pursued, began to shout. "stop thief" himself, and thus divert attention from himself, and thus divert attention from himself, and thus divert attention from himself to others. When he catches my wife and myself riding to Sacramento and back on a free pass I will agree to place twice the amount of the fare in the treasury of the Orphans' Home. I believe on two occasions have taken lunch at the clty's expense, when the members of the Council, newspaper representatives and a number of civil engineers took a trip to inspect the sewer route. Fifty cents will more than pay for all the lunches I have had at the expense of the city, and the Mayor knows that the bills for the lunches and wagon hire on those occasions were presented in a proper manner, and no attempt was made to snuggle the money out of the emergency fund.

As to the $54 illegally drawn by the Mayor from the emergency fund, May 19. I beg to inform His Honor that this Council was in session the day before, and, if requested, could on that day have provided a sum in the regular way to meet the expected demands for jury fees, and further, quested, could on that day have provided a sum in the regular way to meet the expected demands for jury fees, and further, if an emergency requires it, a meeting of the Council can be called in one hour. The Mayor claims that the Council authorized him to hire O'Melveny & Henning by referring this matter to him. I challenge him to show where this Council referred the case to him. He took it voluntarily, and he, being a lawyer, the members of the Council thought he wanted an opportunity to again display his forensic force, and would therefore conduct the case himself. The Herald of November 5 reported that Mayor Hazard had stated that he had paid these attorneys their fee himself, but Mr. Henning told me only last Saturday that the fee was yet unpaid, so that was another bit of fiction.

bit of ficion,
I cannot recall a single message in which he did not, either by innuendo or crafty manipulation of words, distort and misconstrue the facts, so as to cast discredit on others and promote his own aggrandizement. He is prolific in subtle resources and never short of a subtlerfuge. In his last veto message he says: "I return contract with F. Chenowith unsigned because it provides for payment for grading this tract with F. Chenowith unsigned because it provides for payment for grading this street out of the general fund." He knew very well that the contract was only for placing gravel on a twenty-foot strip on Central avenue, and not for grading in the legal acceptation of that term. If His Honor imagines that I have been unfair in my criticisms I shall have to attribute it to the dangerous precedents established by himself. As the Mayor possesses many qualities which I admire, I trust the occasion will not again arise to provoke me to sion will not again arise to provoke me to repeat the unpleasant task I have now assumed. Let His Honor first pull the beam out of his own eye, etc., and also remember that 'kind words awaken kind echoes."

The Mayor is so fond of publicity that I am sure he will be glad to have his name go reliber down the area in song and story.

THE NEW POLICE STATION.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported as follows:
It being the sense of this body that the building on Second street, known as the old City Hall, or police station, should be sold, and that a new building should be constructed on the city property on the north side of the City Hall, we recommend that the City Attorney be instructed to prenorth side of the City Hall, we recommend that the City Attorney be instructed to prepare an ordinance to sell at public auction the said property on Second street, and that the City Clerk-be instructed to advertise for plans and specifications to construct a police 'station on the city property on Broadway, said building to cost not to exceed $60,000.

President Bonsail resigned the chair temporarily in favor of Councilman Summerland for the purpose of speak-ing on the subject. He stated that he could not see the advantage to be gained by making such a change at present, but did not base his objections upon that fact so much as upon the fact that the matter had never beer erly brought before the Council by the Board of Police Commissioners, to which it rightly belonged. This matter had apparently originated with the Committee on Public Buildings, and the proper course out to have been taken. Councilman Tufts stated that the gen teman was in error in stating that this matter originated with the committee. "It started with a motion in this Council to refer the matter to this committee, and it has reported today. The Police Commissioners have been urging upon this Council to take this action time and again. We shall shortly have to spend $5000 on that Second street station to fitti up. The grand jury, as you are aware, have condemned that building, and something has got to be done. Th and sometimes has got to be done. The city. A man should not be punished till he has been convicted of some crime, and it is a punishment to arrest a man and throw him in that prison."

President Bonsall admitted that all

Councilman Summerland remarked from the chair that the receiving hos-pital was a disgrace to this city. Councilman Nickell said that he was action one week.

President Bonsall again made his point, but Councilman Tufts stated that no committee could do anything further with it than had been done by this committee. They could not get out of the old building till the new one is built, nor could they build the new one till the old one was sold. The old building and lot will bring somewhere near $70,000, and that will pay for the new building Upon his motion the report was adopted, President Bonsall alone voting negatively.

The following bids were opened and referred to the Board of Public Works That of D. Mulrein, 12½ cents per square foot, for sidewalking Flower street from Twenty-third to Adams street; that of D. F. Donegan, $8.20 per lineal foot for grading, graveling and cobble guttering First street from Quebec street to west city limits, and 50 cents for cement curb.

Those of H. C. Register, 8976, for constructing a sewer on First street from Lake Shore to Belmont avenues; Frick Bros., $1233.48 for same work, and Dodd & O'Gard 92 cents per lineal foot for same, were referred to the Sewer Committee.

A report was received from the Commissioners to the effect that at a meeting of the board, held on November 25, the said board recommended that a lease be made with the owners of the old Plaza engine house for five waste. old Plaza engine-house for five years at a rental of $50 per month, as it is needed as a chemical engine station, and the matter was referred to the Fi-nance Committee.

· PUBLIC WORKS. The report of the Board of Public Works was then taken up as published in THE TIMES Saturday, and proceeded until the matter of proposals for grading Pink street, between Beaudry avenue and Tullucca streets, recommending the acceptance of the bid of M. McGreal at $6.60 per lineal foot, was

After some debate upon the question Councilman Innes moved that action be deferred for one week; but as Con tractor McGreal insisted up the return of his check unless action was taken immediately, the motion after it had been carried was reconsidered, and the question as to whether or not the bid should be rejected was deferred until the afternoon session upon motion of Councilman Nickell. Ex-Mayor W. H. Workman then briefly addressed the Council on behalf of the Terminal Railway Company and asked that a small electric light mast be placed at the east end of the First street viaduct, which matter was re-ferred to the Gas and Light Committee. Councilman Innes excused himself at this juncture and retired.

PEARL STREET PAVING. The third clause of the report of the Board of Public Works was then fead as follows:

In the matter of proposals for paving Pearl street with bituminous lime-rock and cement concrete base, we refer the matter back to the Council without recommendation other than that action be deferred one week.

Councilman McGarry moved that the bid be rejected and the clerk instructed to readvertise, there being a fatal defect in it on account of the failure of the bidder to sign it or fill in the blank in the indemnity band. in the indemnity bond.

City Engineer Dockweiler announced City Engineer Dockweller announced that he would stake his official head on the correctness of the ordinance, and after talking the matter over for some time Col. J. J. Ayers addressed the Council on behalf of the property the Council on behalf of the property owners. He said that he was deeply interested in the remarks of Mr. Gird relative to the qualities and virtues of the newly-discovered rock, and hoped that it would prove to be all that was claimed for it. It would be a great thing for this country. But he must confess that when it came so close to home, that he must pay for the experi-ment, he was a little backward, and would like to see it tried in the business part of the city first.

Mr. Forrester agreed with Col. Ayers; and as Contractor Smith offered to amend his bid, if permitted to do so, the matter was laid over until the afternoon session, and a recess was taken until 2 o'clock.

The Council met at 2 o'clock, with President Bonsall in the chair, and all the members present, when considera tion of the report of the Board of Pub lic Works was resumed, and the various recommendations as heretofore pub-lished were adopted, with the excep-tion of that in regard to the opening of Hoff street, on which action was post-

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES, LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30, 1891. The egg famine which prevailed here to some extent last week seems to be at an end—at least for a time. Both fresh ranch and eastern eggs were in liberal supply to-

Arrivals of the former were plentiful today, and a carload of the latter coming in added to the very considerable stock of eastern eggs on hand. The result is a weaker market and somewhat lower prices all around.

The Bradstreet Mercantile Agency re ports 13 failures in the Pacific States and Territories for the week ended the 27th inst., as compared with 17 for the 27th inst., as compared with 17 for the previous week, and 13 for the corresponding week of 1890. The 'failures for the past week were divided among the trades as follows: Two saloons, I yineyardist, I cigars and tobacco, I jeweler, I hotel, I planos, I grocer, I butcher, I baker, I restaurant, I talior and I general store.

The rather remarkable difference in the prices of sweet potatoes in this city and at San Francisco—quotations at the latter place being two or three times higher than those here—is causing some shipments from this city to the bay. The market there, however, is considered rather uncertain, and many dealers do not care to risk sending lafge consignments.

The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly re-sending large consignments.

The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the English grain trade, says: "English wheat has declined 1s. Fancy whats have also dropped 1s. Bariey, oats and Indian corn have declined 6d 9s. Business today was meagre, English wheats were 6d lower; foreign wheats showed the same reduction; flour, oats, grinding barleys and linseed dropped 3d 66d."

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30 .- Special to THE TIMES. The produce markets were very quiet this morning, and prices of leading cereals were, weak but mostly nominal, as there was little or no trading. There is no export demand for wheat, shippers almos export demand for wheat, snippers almost entirely having withdrawn from the mar-ket. Barley is also very quiet, there being little or no demand for feed descriptions. Oats and corn are dull and weak, although prices are unchanged. The price of bran vas reduced $1 per ton this morning. was reduced $1 per ton this morning.

The fresh fruit market is dull and prices weaker. Berries are in light supply and prices are very irregular. Grapes are easier. Choice apples and winter pears alone command ton quotations. Citrus fruits are in fair supply.

The vegetable market is unchanged, and there is little demand-for anything. String beans are scarce. Tomatoes are easier and beans are scarce. Tomatoes are easier and plentiful.

The demand for butter of all kinds is fair, with an easy tone in prices. Choice ranch eggs are plentiful and weak.

Orange and Lemon Lands At Redlands, Mentone and Barton Ranch. Only 10 per cent cash down; no further payment for 6 and 10 years.

Over $400,000 worth of this class of land has been sold by the undersigned in Mentene and Rediands in the past two years in 10 and 20-acre tracts, and ALL to settlers, most of which is now planted and has hand-some residences thereon.

The demand for land at MENTONE has increased very materially since last winter on account of not having any frost there to injure the most delicate shoot on the orange tree.

injure the most delicate shoot on the orange tree.

The demand will be greater now than ever before, for the reason that the recent storms did not do one dollar's damage.

The formation of the mountains around MENTONE is such that it is almost entrely free from the north and east winds, it being about $2,000$ feet above sea level, and one of the first than the formation of the formation of the formation of the formation of the first than the formation of the first than the formation of the first premium and dry in winter.

The budded orange tree, strawberry, guava, apricot, peach and fig. bear fruit at MENTONE first year after planting. The olives grown on three-year-old trees received first premium at the State Citrus Fair this year.

Orange Land on Six Tears'

Location.

Mentone is the highest station on the Santa Fe Belt R. R. Il miles from San Bernardino, only 3 miles east of the business center of Redlands. The Motor line and Southern Pacific are now preparing to extend their roads to Mentone: they are within three miles of there at present.

The oranges, lemons, olives and all other fruits grown at MENTONE and vicinity are the best and highest priced in the market, as there is no black smut, no scale bug or fruit peats of any kind. There are orange, lemon and about all other kinds of fruits of the state of t

Chance for Contract Work. Any settler at MENTONE will have the privilege of paying one-fourth the price of his land in contract work or team work by the day, provided he has an agreement to that effect in writing at time of purchase.
